Hogsheads of Tobacco Sold Here This Week.

Factories About Through Prizing the Weed And Receipts Will Grow Better.

Sales of the weed this week were the largest of the season and prices on the break market were better than last week. Public and private sales amounted to 969 hogsheads. Considerable of the tobacco was good to fine leaf. Receipts were 230 hogsheads. Nearly all the factories have finished prizing and receipts from now on to the close of the season will grow lighter. Receipts for the year foot up 8,515 hogsheads and sales for the same 3,306 hogsheads.

R. M. Woodridge & Co. had a very good sale of the loose weed on the floor and prices were considered good for the grades offered. The inspectors' monthly report is as follows:

FERRIS WHEEL

Sold at Auction to Chicago Junk Dealer.

The Ferris wheel which was one of the main attractions to visitors on the midway during the World's Fair in 1893 and which was subsequently removed to Lincoln Park, was sold at public auction Tuesday. A junk dealer bid in the big wheel, and the sum paid for the engines, buildings, boilers, &c., was $1,800. The wheel cost originally $362,000. Outstanding against it are bonds amounting to $300,000 and a floating debt of $100,000.

PARALYTIC STROKE

Ends Life of Well Known Colored Man.

Phil Bell, col., died at his home in this city yesterday morning of paralysis, aged 76 years. He had been stricken three times during the past year. It is said that he was the first colored man to serve on a jury in Kentucky. He was one of the organizers of the C. M. E. church in this State, and also the Union Benevolent Society, the first colored organization in Kentucky. Funeral services will be held at the C. M. E. church by Rev. J. W. Luckett at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The burial will be held with lodge honors.

Victim of Consumption.

Miss Virginia Wicks, who lived with her sister on Durrett's avenue, died Wednesday night, after a long illness, of consumption. The interment took place in Hopewell cemetery yesterday.

TORNADO'S WORK.

Extent of Appalling Disaster Hardly Yet Realized.

Eight Hundred People Without Home or Sustenance, Their All Being Swept Away.

Gainesville, Ga., June 2.—The six thousand inhabitants of this city have to-night just begun to realize the extent of the appalling disaster of yesterday. It now seems certain that the death list will not be much short of one hundred; considering the number of dangerously wounded whose chances for recovery cannot now be calculated.

Figuring from all available sources and giving credence only to those reports which are believed to be trustworthy, the following is a summary of the effects of the tornado in Gainesville and its environs:

One hundred killed, 150 injured, of whom probably 20 will die. Eight hundred homeless, their residences having been wiped out of existence.

Property loss of about half a million dollars, none of which was covered by storm insurance.

The entire city will suspend all business during the next twenty-four hours and every uninjured person in the city with the exception of the doctors and nurses, will assist in the work of burial. The graves are now being made. There will be a hundred funerals here this afternoon and to-morrow.

Mr. Payne is connected with the Acme Mills and Elevator Company and is a young business man of fine promise and excellent character.

BOUGHT ST. CYR.

Mr. J. D. Ware The Owner of Celebrated Trotter

Mr. J. D. Ware has become the owner of one of the best harness horses in this part of Kentucky. A few days ago he bought from Mr. Joe S. Ray, of Auburn, Ky., the noted gelding St. Cyr, with trotting record of 2:16 1/4. He is a beautiful bay, with four white feet and a star. Mr. Ware paid the handsome price of $400 for him and he is justly proud of his purchase.

St. Cyr will be used as a driving animal by his new owner. He has attracted much attention on the streets this week. No other piece of horsemanship in the city approaches him in speed or beauty.

SUCCESSFUL OPERATION.

Grain of Corn Removed From Child's Windpipe.

An operation was performed on a little two-year-old daughter of Mr. Fred Hays, of near the city, Tuesday. The child got a large grain of corn in her windpipe about a week ago. When the incision was made the grain dropped out and she was at once relieved. She was getting along quite well at last accounts, with chances of an early recovery.

HOPKINSVILLE WON

First Game and Jackson Second—Game Yesterday.

The game of ball at the Athletic park Tuesday between the Jackson team and local nine was won by the home team, the score being 9 to 8. A large crowd witnessed the game which proved most interesting from start to finish.

The rain of Wednesday prevented the game scheduled for that day being called at 4 o'clock, but the team lined up on the grounds just before 5 o'clock and seven innings were played. Hopkinsville, in this game, lost to the visitors by the score of 3 to 1. Taking the incident weather into consideration the crowd which witnessed this game was even larger than expected.

The third game of the series of the week with Jackson was scheduled for yesterday afternoon.

TWO GOOD PAPERS

Read at the Meeting of the Athenaeum Last Night.

Two interesting papers were on the program at the Athenaeum last night, at the monthly meeting at Hotel Latham. Mr. J. Orville Goode had a historical sketch on "Jefferson Davis." Dr. Robt. F. McDaniel discussed, in a carefully prepared paper, the subject of "Baccaria."

Both papers evoked the usual discussions in five minute speeches.

A Saddened Home.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Howell Tandy, little Howell, aged five months, died of cholera infantum Tuesday night, after a brief illness. The funeral took place from the home of Mrs. Tandy's father, Mr. E. M. Plack, Wednesday and the interment was at Hopewell cemetery. The grief-stricken parents have the sympathies of many friends in the loss of their only child.

The report that John Wilkes Booth, the assassin of Abraham Lincoln, died in Oklahoma under an assumed name, is denied. It is positively asserted that his body lies buried in Baltimore.

A SEA LYRIC.

There is no music that man has heard
Like the voice of the minister Sea.
Whose melody and minor chords are fraught
With infinite mystery.
Play over his rhythmic breast
And bear on the sweep of their mighty wings
The song of a vast unrest.

There is no passion that man has sung,
Like the voice of the deep-souled Sea.
Whose life requies to the Moon's soft light
With marvelous melody—
For the Sea is a harp, and the winds of God
Play over his rhythmic breast.

And bear on the sweep of their mighty wings
The song of a vast unrest.

There is no sorrow that man has known,
Like the grief of the world's Main,
Whose Titan bosom throes throbs
With an undimmed pain—
For the Sea is a harp, and the winds of God
Play over his rhythmic breast.

And bear on the sweep of their mighty wings
The song of a vast unrest.

—William Hamilton Weaver in Atlantic.

THE DEACON'S FLYER

Speaking of sure things naturally calls to mind the case of my old friend Deacon Wiggler, whom I used to know back in Missouri years ago. The deacon was a powerful pious man, and he was good according to his lights, but he didn't use a very superior article of kerosene to keep them burning.

Used to take half the time in prayer-meeting talking about how we were all weak vessels and stewards. But he was so blamed busy exhorting others to give out of the fullness with which the Lord had blessed them that he forgot that the Lord had blessed him about $50,000 worth, and put it in mighty safe property, too, you bet.

The deacon had a brother in Chicago whom he used to call a "sorcero." Brother Bill was a broker on the board of trade, and according to the deacon, he was not only engaged in a mighty sinful occupation, but he was a mighty poor steward of his sinful gains. Smoked two-bit cigars and wore a plug hat. Drank a little and cussed a little and went to the Episcopal church, though he had been raised a Methodist. Altogether it looked as if Bill was a pretty hard nut.

Well, one fall the deacon decided to go to Chicago himself to buy his winter goods, and naturally he hiked out to Brother Bill's to stay, which was considerably cheaper for him than the Palmer house, though, as he told us when he got back, it made him sick to see the waste.

The deacon had his mouth all fixed to tell Brother Bill that, in his opinion, he wasn't much better than a fair dealer, for he used to brag that he never let anything turn him from his duty, which meant his meddling other people's business. I was too sorry right there that with most men duty means something unpleasant which the other fellow ought to do. As a matter of fact, a man's first duty is to mind his own business. It has been my experience that it takes all the thought which one man can give to run one man right, and if a fellow's putting in five or six hours a day on his neighbor's character, he's mighty apt to scamp the building of his own.

Well, when Brother Bill got home from business that first night, the deacon explained that every time he lit a two-bit cigar he was depriving a Zulu of 25 helpful little tracts which might have made a better man of him; that fast horses were a snare and plug hats a wife of the enemy; that the board of trade was the temple of Belial, and the brokers on it his sons and servants.

Brother Bill listened mighty patiently to him, and when the deacon had pumped out all the Scripture that was in him, and was beginning to suck air, he set of slunk into the conversation like a setter pup that's been caught with the feathers on his chops.

"Brother Zeke," says he, "I shall certainly let your words soak in. I want to be a number two red, hard, round and clean sort of a man, and grade contract on delivery day. Perhaps, as you say, the rust has got into me and the Inspector won't pass me, and I can see it that way I'll settle my trades and get out of the market for good."

The deacon knew that Brother Bill had scraped together considerable property, and, as he was a bachelor, it would come in him in case the broker was removed by any sudden dispensation. What he really feared was that his money might be fooled away in high living and speculation. And so he banged away into the middle of the flock, hoping to bring down those two birds. Now that it began to look as if he might kill it, he hedge.

"It's safe, William," says he. "As Sunday school," says Bill, "if you do a strictly brokerage business and don't speculate."

"I trust, William, that you recognized the responsibility of your stewardship."

Bill fetched again. "Zeke," says he, "you connected me to, and I 'pose I might as well walk up to the Captain's office and settle. I hadn't bought or sold a bucket on my own account for a year and a half week, when I got your letter saying that you were coming. Then I saw what looked like a safe chance to scotch the market for a couple of cents a bushel, and I bought 10,000 September, intending to turn over the profits to you as a little present, so that you could see the town and have a good time without its costing you anything."

The deacon judged from Bill's expression that he had got nipped and was going to try to unload the loss on him, so he changed his face to one in which he used when attending the funeral of any one who hadn't been a professor, and came back quick and hard:

"I'm surprised, William, that you should think I would accept money made in gambling. Let it be a lesson to you. How much did you lose?"

"That's the worst of it—I didn't lose; I made $200," and Bill gave another sigh.

"Made $200!" echoed the deacon, and he changed his face again for the one which he used when he found a lead quarter in his pall and couldn't remember who had passed it on him.

"Yes," Bill went on, "and I'm ashamed of it, for you've made me see things in a new light. Of course, after what you've said, I know it would be an insult to offer you the money. And I feel now that it wouldn't be right to keep it myself. I must sleep on it and try to find the straight thing to do."

I guess it really didn't interfere with Bill's sleep, but the deacon set up with the corpse of the $200, you bet. In the morning at breakfast he asked Brother Bill to explain all about this speculating business, which made the market go up and down, and whether real corn or wheat or pork figured in any stage of a deal. Bill looked sort of sad and dreamy-eyed, as his conscience hadn't digested that two hundred yet, but he was mighty obliging about explaining everything to Zeke. He had changed his face for one which he wore when he sold an easy customer ground peas and chicory for O. G. Java, and every now and then he gulped as if he was going to start a hymn. When Bill told him how good and bad weather sent the market up and down he nodded and said that that part of it was all right, because it was of the Lord.

"Not on the board of trade it isn't," Bill answered back; "at least, not to any marked extent; it's from the weather man or some liar in the corn belt, and as the weather man usually reckons wrong, I reckon there isn't any special inspiration about it. The game is to guess what's going to happen, not what has happened, and by the time the real weather comes along everybody has guessed wrong and knocked the market off a cent or two."

That made the deacon's chin whiskers quiver a little, but he began to ask questions again, and by and by he discovered that away behind about a hundred miles behind, but that was close enough for the deacon—a deal in futures there were real wheat and pork. Said then that he'd been misinformed and misled; that speculation was a legitimate business, involving skill and sagacity; that his last scruple was removed, and that he would accept the two hundred.

Bill brightened right up at that and thanked him for putting it so clear and removing the doubts that had been worrying him. Said that he could speculate with a clear conscience after listening to the deacon's able exposition on the subject. Was a soldier in the Seaford Highlanders, after being in India about four years, was attacked by malaria. Shortly after leaving the hospital he noticed that the exposed parts of his body were changing color. The discoloration gradually spread to other parts of his body; his eyes have changed from grey to blue, his light brown hair is now quite dark, and the skin of his body appears darker in summer than in winter, some parts becoming quite coal black.

A TASTE FOR STATISTICS.

The Man Who Found His Amusement in Big Numbers.

"No," observed the paverer with the check suit, according to London Tit-Bits, "people in general have no knowledge of what is going on around them."

"To me there is no study half so interesting as statistics. How many people, for instance, have any idea of the number of typewriting machines sold in this country last year?"

"I'm sure I couldn't even give a guess," said the elderly suburbanite sitting next to him.

"The exact figures were 9,322,811, or nearly one to every five persons in the United Kingdom."

"Good gracious! I shouldn't have guessed half as many as that."

"And all in one year, too. I knew the figures would surprise you. Then take the single item of fountain pens. Do you happen to know how many were made and sold last year?"

"Haven't the remotest idea."

"It is estimated that the sales of fountain pens alone were over 13,000,000. Could you give a good guess as to the number of golf balls disposed of in the same length of time?"

"I'm sure I couldn't."

"Over 24,000,000. Anybody ever tell you how many cherrywood pipes we turned out in 1902?"

"No."

"Well, sir, the grand total was 178,000,000. Think of it! Placed end to end they would more than reach around the earth, without allowing anything for the stems."

"But what—"

"And that isn't all. To light those pipes the match companies manufactured—how many matches do you suppose?"

"I never could guess."

"I hardly think you could. Eight hundred billion is a number almost inconceivable. The match factories use a pine forest of 654 acres every day in the week, including Sunday."

"Great Scott! I never dreamed—"

"That's it. Few people ever take the trouble to find out what the world is doing. Know how many books are printed annually in the United Kingdom?"

"It must be millions."

"Seven hundred and sixty of them. That means in round numbers 2,000,000 books every working day in the year. To print and bind this stupendous output requires the services of 8,260,914 persons in those two trades alone, not counting the paper makers and workers in allied occupations, who may be roughly estimated at 3,000,000 more. But this is the station where I get off. Look these things up. They will surprise and interest you. Good morning."

"Who is he?" gasped the elderly suburbanite, as the man of statistics left the car.

"Don't you know?" said the man in the corner seat. "That's Juggle-fax. His way of amusing himself is to get some trusting soul to listen to him, just as you did, and then fill him with statistical hot air. He's the biggest liar on earth."

"I'll acknowledge," said the other, wiping his face nervously, "that I thought some of his figures seemed a little bit large."

White Man Turns Black.

Whether men were originally all of one color and subsequently assumed their distinctive tints in the process of becoming acclimated to their different surroundings is an open question which has given rise to much speculation. A case is reported from India which may prove very valuable in assisting to determine the matter: A soldier in the Seaford Highlanders, after being in India about four years, was attacked by malaria. Shortly after leaving the hospital he noticed that the exposed parts of his body were changing color. The discoloration gradually spread to other parts of his body; his eyes have changed from grey to blue, his light brown hair is now quite dark, and the skin of his body appears darker in summer than in winter, some parts becoming quite coal black.

The Man Who Found His Amusement in Big Numbers.

"No," observed the paverer with the check suit, according to London Tit-Bits, "people in general have no knowledge of what is going on around them."

"To me there is no study half so interesting as statistics. How many people, for instance, have any idea of the number of typewriting machines sold in this country last year?"

"I'm sure I couldn't even give a guess," said the elderly suburbanite sitting next to him.

"The exact figures were 9,322,811, or nearly one to every five persons in the United Kingdom."

"Good gracious! I shouldn't have guessed half as many as that."

"And all in one year, too. I knew the figures would surprise you. Then take the single item of fountain pens. Do you happen to know how many were made and sold last year?"

"Haven't the remotest idea."

"It is estimated that the sales of fountain pens alone were over 13,000,000. Could you give a good guess as to the number of golf balls disposed of in the same length of time?"

"I'm sure I couldn't."

"Over 24,000,000. Anybody ever tell you how many cherrywood pipes we turned out in 1902?"

"No."

"Well, sir, the grand total was 178,000,000. Think of it! Placed end to end they would more than reach around the earth, without allowing anything for the stems."

"But what—"

"And that isn't all. To light those pipes the match companies manufactured—how many matches do you suppose?"

"I never could guess."

"I hardly think you could. Eight hundred billion is a number almost inconceivable. The match factories use a pine forest of 654 acres every day in the week, including Sunday."

"Great Scott! I never dreamed—"

"That's it. Few people ever take the trouble to find out what the world is doing. Know how many books are printed annually in the United Kingdom?"

"It must be millions."

"Seven hundred and sixty of them. That means in round numbers 2,000,000 books every working day in the year. To print and bind this stupendous output requires the services of 8,260,914 persons in those two trades alone, not counting the paper makers and workers in allied occupations, who may be roughly estimated at 3,000,000 more. But this is the station where I get off. Look these things up. They will surprise and interest you. Good morning."

"Who is he?" gasped the elderly suburbanite, as the man of statistics left the car.

"Don't you know?" said the man in the corner seat. "That's Juggle-fax. His way of amusing himself is to get some trusting soul to listen to him, just as you did, and then fill him with statistical hot air. He's the biggest liar on earth."

"I'll acknowledge," said the other, wiping his face nervously, "that I thought some of his figures seemed a little bit large."

White Man Turns Black.

Whether men were originally all of one color and subsequently assumed their distinctive tints in the process of becoming acclimated to their different surroundings is an open question which has given rise to much speculation. A case is reported from India which may prove very valuable in assisting to determine the matter: A soldier in the Seaford Highlanders, after being in India about four years, was attacked by malaria. Shortly after leaving the hospital he noticed that the exposed parts of his body were changing color. The discoloration gradually spread to other parts of his body; his eyes have changed from grey to blue, his light brown hair is now quite dark, and the skin of his body appears darker in summer than in winter, some parts becoming quite coal black.

DISTRICT POLITICS.

Now that the nominations have been made in the Third judicial district, the question naturally arises, is there any likelihood that Judge Bush and Mr. Smith will not be elected? Under ordinary conditions the district is safely Democratic. The vote in the last general election was as here given, by counties:

BRYAN, M'KINLEY
Calloway	2876 844
Christian	3264 4473
Lyon	1005 789
Trigg	1533 1455

Total

Democratic majority 1,117.

The party is stronger than it was in 1900 by several hundred votes. It will be seen that two-thirds of the Republicans in the district live in Christian and with these voters Judge Bush will have several hundred votes stronger than Bryan was. In fact the Republican vote is largely an independent vote and frequently, as in 1901, several hundred Republicans vote for popular Democrats. The normal majority this year was reduced to less than 200 votes in one race. A popular local candidate like Judge Bush will run far enough ahead of his ticket to supply any votes lost in other counties growing out of the throwing out of illegal votes in Trigg county by the district committee. It will be seen that Trigg county has only 78 Democratic majority and with 40 voters holding the balance of power, it is dangerous for Democrats to be threatening to bolt any part of the ticket. Any attempt to scratch Judge Bush on account of the troubles in Trigg county, will seriously endanger the success of the local ticket in that county. Fortunately it is five months till the election and there is ample time for the soreness to disappear and for the promises to unite in the work of harmonizing party differences. If the Republicans run a district ticket the Democrats will put out a strong local ticket in Christian county and make a fight for the county, perhaps along the same lines that came so near succeeding two years ago. In such an event, it is believed the Republican majority could be wiped out and Bush's victory turned into a landslide. Democrats are already looking around for their strongest men to put forward for circuit clerk and representative. If the Republicans invite a contest of this sort, there will be some warm politics between now and November in Christian county.

The Paducah Register makes a false statement in the news columns of the Courier-Journal a pretext for saying some unkind things about the editor of the Kentuckian. Among other things it is charged that "Hendrick was betrayed and thrown down" in Judge Bush's interest. No one knows the falsity of this charge better than Col. Hendrick himself, who voluntarily retired from the race for Governor after his friends had told him candidly the condition of his organization and the certainty of his defeat under conditions known to exist. He gave his own reasons in his own language when he withdrew from a hopeless contest.

Latham, Alexander & Co., New York, have compiled their annual statistics on the cotton crop. The total estimated cotton acreage for 1903 is 272 per cent, or 737,878 acres more than last year's, and the average planting of the crop is about 15 days later than normal. The crop is nowhere in as promising a condition as this time last year.

The injunction case of M. W. Neal and others vs. Allie W. The case will probably be passed upon this week.

There are now two announced candidates for prison commissioner, McDonald, of Calloway, and Sullivan, of Woodford. Representative R. B. Bradley, of Hopkins county, is also understood to have his eye on the place.

The Glasgow Times sounds a note of warning that the election this fall is not to be a walk-over.

In Memoriam.

The old saying, "Death loves a shining mark," was fully illustrated on May 27th, 1903, when Carrie King Doyle passed from earth to Heaven.

When she left us just eight short months ago a happy bride, little did we think she would be brought back to us a corpse.

We have surely missed her heretofore, but now to know we will never see her more, will no more hear her merry voice, and to know her place is vacant forever is very, very sad.

What hopes and possibilities lie shrouded in that tomb! But God, who knows the future as well as the past and present, and who makes no mistake, has called for his own. When we see cut down that divine work, a young Christian woman, full of vigor, innocence and purity, with the understanding to know, the heart to feel and the will to do, it teaches us stronger than ever God's ways are not our ways. We must comfort ourselves by remembering there is no good word, good deed, good life like this one, but makes its impress on the world.

Always merry and bright, quick at repartee, kindly disposed, Carrie was a universal favorite, and touching indeed was it to see the grief of her friends grouped about her casket mingling their tears with the heart broken family. A devoted daughter and sister, a noble Christian, faithful to her church and any obligation she undertook, making one of the finest officers our Grange ever had, all this and more was our Carrie.

The remains were carried from the train to the Methodist church where her former pastor, Rev. Cashman, delivered a beautiful and impressive discourse. After which the body was followed to its last resting place by a long procession of sympathizing friends.

The pall-bearers were her schoolmates and friends of her old home. The floral designs were many, beautiful and appropriate; and now sorrowing husbands our hearts go out to you, may God pity you in his infinite love and mercy in such sorrow and come and abide with you forever. Then you will know it is his voice which says, "I love you, pass under the rod."

Heart-broken "daddy" and mother and brothers, Jesus has said, "where your treasure is there will your heart be also." Was not this dear, sweet girl your treasure? She is in Heaven and time is passing; ere long the shadow which sits by the pathway waiting will take you as it took dear Carrie. No need to ask then

"Will any one then at the beautiful gate
Be waiting and watching for me?"

There is a good deal of speculation as to whether or not the Republicans will run a ticket in the judicial district against Judge Bush and Denny Smith. Judge Jas. Breathitt, who has been spoken of as a probable candidate for judge, is quite likely to be on the Republican state ticket.

Out of the eighteen candidates voted for in the judicial election in Chicago Tuesday, the Democrats elected fourteen and the Republicans four. A light vote was cast, owing to the weather, and straight tickets were few and far between. Among the defeated Republicans was Judge E. Haney, a close friend of Congressman Lorimer.

SOCIAL SENSATION.

Miss Maggie Lyle Sues Dr. R. B. Ussery for $10,000.

Damages Asked For Breach of Promise of Marriage—He Married Another Girl.

Clarksville, Tenn., June 2.—Suit has been instituted in the Circuit Court of Montgomery County against Dr. R. B. Ussery by Miss Maggie Lyle for breach of promise, claiming damages to the amount of $10,000. The suit will prove somewhat of a sensation on account of the parties concerned, who are highly respected citizens of the Seventeenth District.

Dr. Ussery came to Clarksville on the evening of Thursday, May 21, and was married to Miss Buyde Allen, daughter of W. C. Allen, a well-known merchant of Shiloh. The announcement of their wedding was a great surprise to the friends of the contracting parties all over the county, for invitations had already been issued for the marriage of Dr. Ussery and Miss Maggie Lyle, daughter of Henry Lyle, of the South Side. The announcement of the wedding had been made in the local papers, the bridesmaids and attendants had been selected and were preparing for the marriage, which was being looked forward to as one of the social events of the season.

The declaration in the suit has not yet been filed, and will probably not be until a few days before the time for convening the next term of the Circuit Court.

Fight Will Be Bitter.

Those who will persist in closing their ears against the continual recommendation of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, will have a long and bitter fight with their troubles, if not ended earlier by fatal termination. Improvement came at once and four bottles entirely cured her. Guaranteed by R. C. Hardwick, druggist. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

The high esteem in which the public schools are held was attested by the large audience present. The address of Dr. T. M. Hawes was thoughtful, practical, eloquent, well delivered and thoroughly enjoyed. It was interspersed with bits of humor, but was in the main an appeal to the graduates to get clear and just conceptions of life and duty and to pursue the chosen professions earnestly, seeking to attain real and true, not apparent success.

Miss Finley delighted the audience with her readings. Her technique in voice and gesture is perfect. She is an artist in interpretation and expression.

Diplomas were awarded by Dr. F. M. Stites, chairman of the board, to twenty-two graduates.

The following five scholarships were given for grade ranking, in the order mentioned:

Awarding Diplomas.
Orchestra.....Selected

The orchestra played several numbers at the opening and closing of the exercises.
Mr. Victor Dryden Holloway was the salutatory and delivered a timely and most creditable address. It showed careful preparation and its delivery was in a graceful and entertaining style.

Miss Anderson's singing was in a clever, sweet voice, that thoroughly pleased her hearers.

Mr. Dudley Long's class prophecy contained many humorous hits, something being predicted about each member of the large class of graduates.
Miss Elgin rendered 'The Rustle of Spring' in a most pleasing manner and Miss Harnerd sang 'Only in dreams' most acceptably and sweetly.

Miss Faxon and Miss Elgin played 'Fantasie' in a manner that demonstrated their unusual musical gifts.

Mr. James E. Chappell, the valedictorian, delivered his address on the subject, 'What Next' in fine style. He possesses the voice and graces of a born orator and from his opening sentence, had the audience listening with intense interest to his every word. The oration was a gem of its kind and the young orator's peroration was eloquent in the extreme. He scored a personal triumph that evoked storms of applause.

The degrees were awarded to the twenty graduates by Prof. H. Clay Smith, who delivered a most appropriate and inspiring address in so doing. Prof. Smith is a speaker of rare force and clearness and his remarks were highly appreciated by his hearers.

An honorary degree was conferred upon Rev. John Louis Hill, of Union City, Ind., who delivered the baccalaureate sermon Sunday night.

The graduates and faculty at 10 o'clock repaired to Hotel Whitlow, where a banquet was served in courses, that proved to be a fitting climax to the exercises.

Nervous Depression.

Summer months are peculiarly the months of nervous diseases, especially nervous prostration and other depressed states of the nervous system. People who are not at all inclined to be nervous or suffer from weak nerves find this time especially trying. Sundry head and cerebral disturbances of the atmosphere are probably the cause of this.

Invalids need to be particularly careful to fortify the nervous system by the use of Peruna.

Miss Helen Roloff, Kaukauna, Wis., writes: "Several times during the past two years or more my system has been greatly in need of a tonic, and at those times Peruna has been of great help in building up the system, restoring my appetite and securing peaceful sleep. I know a great number of people who are using it for the troubles peculiar to the sex, and with the best results."—Helen Roloff.

MISS LOUISE BERTSEL.

Miss Louise Bertsel, 191 Second street, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes: "My health was excellent until about a month ago, when I seemed to have a collapse from overworking socially, and I could not get an ending change of scene and climate. As this was an unusual case at the time, I was advised to try and regain my health in another way and was told to use Peruna. I took a few bottles and such a good recommendation, to try Peruna. I began to use it. The lines, some irritated, but Peruna soon changed me into a well woman, and now I do not know I have nerves."—Louise Bertsel.

"A newspaper contributor was lately admitted into the extensive suite of offices which constitute the headquarters of Dr. Harman, who treats catarrh patients by the thousand. Among the busy swarm of assistant doctors, clerks, stenographers and bookkeepers, Dr. Harman stopped long enough to say a few words.

"A large number of female patients visit me every year, but the number who are entered on my books as regular patients is very much larger. Hundreds of letters are received and answered free every day. A yet greater multitude 'ask my catarrh'—Peruna, and are cured, of whom I never hear. Some of this latter class write me years after their cure.

time. The medicine only is obtained by mail, sent at her own drug store. Those desiring to become regular patients have only to send address, duration of disease and treatment previously received, and directions for the first month's treatment will be sent at once.

Over half the women have catarrh in some form or another. And yet, probably, the medicine only is obtained by mail, sent at her own drug store. Those desiring to become regular patients have only to send address, duration of disease and treatment previously received, and directions for the first month's treatment will be sent at once.

MISS LOUISE BERTSEL.

MISS JENNIE FINLEY.

Miss Jennie Finley, 70 Madison Street, Memphis, Tenn., a popular young society lady of that place, writes: "Three years ago I had very poor health, and while I was only sick about occasionally, I was unable to enjoy life, and lacked vitality and strength. I was an easy subject to cold and malaria. Four bottles of Peruna cleared my entire physical condition. My head stopped aching, my stomach returned, and the poison was driven out of my blood till I felt like a new and well woman once more. It is a truly great medicine and well worth the good things I find and about it and it will always have my endorsement."—Jennie Finley.

MISS LUCY M. RILEY.

ably not a tenth of the women know that their disease is catarrh. To distinguish catarrh of various organs it has been named very differently. One would call it dyspepsia, another bronchitis, another Bright's disease, another liver complaint, another consumption, another female complaint. These women would be very much surprised to hear that they are all suffering with chronic catarrh. But it is so, nevertheless. Much of these troubles and a great many more are simply catarrh—that is, chronic inflammation of the mucous lining, of which organ is affected. Any internal remedy that will cure catarrh in one location will cure it in any other location. This is why Peruna has become so fairly famous in the treatment of male diseases. It cures catarrh wherever located. Its cures remain. Peruna does not palliate, it cures. "Health and Beauty," sent free by The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

His Last Hope Realized.

(From the Sentinel, Gato, Montana.)

In the first opening of Oklahoma to settlers in 1889, the editor of this paper was among the many seekers after fortune who made the big race one fine day in April. During his traveling about and afterwards his camping upon his claim, he encountered much bad water, which, together with the severe heat, gave him a very severe diarrhoea, which it seemed almost impossible to check, and along in June the case became so bad he expected to die. One day one of his neighbors brought him one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a last hope. A big dose was given him while he was rolling about on the ground in great agony, and in a few minutes the dose was repeated. The good effect of the medicine was soon noticed and within an hour the patient was taking his first sound sleep for a fortnight. That one little bottle worked a complete cure, and he cannot help but feel grateful. The season for bowel disorders being at hand suggests this item. For sale by C. K. Wyly, druggist.

Committed Suicide.

A Splendid Remedy.

Neuralgic pains, rheumatism, lumbago and sciatic pains yield to the penetrating influence of Ballard's Snow Liniment. It penetrates to the nerve and bone, and being absorbed into the blood, its healing properties are conveyed to every part of the body and effect some wonderful cures. Mr. D. F. Moore, agent Illinois Central railway, Milan, Tenn., states: I have used Ballard's Snow Liniment for rheumatism, backache, etc., in my family. It is a splendid remedy. We could not do without it." 25c, 50c and $1.00 at R. C. Hardwick's.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

It is everywhere recognized as the one remedy that can always be depended upon and that is pleasant to take. It is especially valuable for summer diarrhoea in children and is undoubtedly the means of saving the lives of a great many children each year. For sale by C. K. Wyly, druggist.

Constipated Bowels.

To have good health, the body should be kept in a laxative condition, and the bowels moved at least once a day, so that all the poisonous wastes are expelled daily. Mr. G. L. FORECASTS FOR JUNE.

Much Rain Predicted and Several Storms Scheduled.

Hicks sums up June weather as follows:

High temperature with stormy conditions from 3rd to 6th. Violent thunder storms, accompanied with hail, may be expected. Downpours of rain, amounting to cloudbursts in many localities, are more than probable. Some very cool nights will follow these storms. On and touching the 9th and 10th, look for reaction to storm conditions, change to much warmer, falling barometer and more storms of rain, thunder, and heavy squalls of wind. The regular storm period covering the 14th to 19th, will reach its culminating stages about Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, the 17th, 18th and 19th. On and touching the 21st and 22nd, look for the return of storm conditions, with renewed thunder and rain squalls, and much harmless lightning at night. The last week in June is covered by a combined mercury and volcanic storm period. About the 25th it will turn exceedingly warm, the barometer will fall and persistent cloudiness and frequent storms of wide extent and much energy will mark the closing days of the month.

RUSSIAN LAND REFORM.

Financial Embarrassment of Nobles Helps the Middle Class.

Among the changes gradually coming over Russia, says the London Standard, none is more worthy of attention than that of the rise of a middle class whose growth is, of course, at the expense of the "nobility," or land-owning class. In the manufacturing centers this change has been pretty rapid and is now extending to areas whose consequences are not dependent upon manufactures. In the recent list of estates put up for sale for arrears of debt upon money lent by the state to the nobility for the improvement of their property we find the Volga provinces showing much the same tendency as those of St. Petersburg and Moscow. Altogether in the provinces about the Volga something like 1,800 acres of nobles' land are advertised for auction. In other words, in half dozen provinces of European Russia, mostly devoted to agriculture, an area of 2,300-odd square miles is the aggregate is passing into the hands of the newly-forming middle classes. This is equivalent to the entire province of Lorraine, or more than three times the size of the duchy of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha. The largest area for sale in any single province is in that of Saratov, which was one of the chief centers of the peasant rising last summer. In this province alone 300,000 acres are advertised for sale.

POPULAR CERULEAN.

Season of 1903 Opened Yesterday With Flattering Prospects.

Cerulean Springs is now open to the public for the season 1903.

Since the close of last season the property has been incorporated under the name of Cerulean Springs Hotel Company. Mr. Ernest Y. Pool retiring and disposing of his interest to W. H. Sims. The officers are Capt. R. S. Pool, President and General Manager; W. H. Sims, Secretary and Treasurer.

Cerulean Springs is located in Trigg county, on the Illinois Central railroad. It is one hundred feet above the road bed and one hundred yards West of the depot, on a high range of hills facing the East. From the veranda of the three stories there is a splendid view of the surrounding country.

The fame of these Springs dates back two centuries to aboriginal days. Long before the permanent settlement of the country and before any roads were established, Indian trails led away from the Springs in many directions. It was through the friendly red men that the curative properties of these waters were revealed to the whites.

Recently a new well 150 feet deep was bored in the front yard. The water found has fine mineral properties, is a splendid aperient and diuretic and has already established a reputation for the relief of kidney and bladder troubles.

A first-class orchestra has been engaged for the season. There is a good bowling alley, an elegant ball-room. A first-class livery stable will furnish visitors every facility for riding and driving. Trap and target shooting will furnish additional sources of amusement.

The date of the opening ball will be announced in a few days.

The services of Mr. Ed. Dabney, the popular and efficient young clerk of last season, have been secured for the present season.

The Hygiene of Old Age.

We look upon the aged with good reason as having a slender hold upon life, one that may be loosened by a slight shock of injury or disease which, in the young or middle-aged, would serve only as a stimulus to the reparative vital powers. This is a conservative belief, but it warns us to shield our loved ones who have fought the fight, from all influences which might shorten their stay with us. But we must not go too far in our solicitude, for injury may be inflicted and life shortened by coddling the old, almost as surely as by coddling the young. The vital processes in the aged are slow, but they are still existent, and they may be kept active by gentle opposition and stimulation, just as they may be increased in childhood and youth by rough methods. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and Herb Laxative Compound is a boon to the aged and infirm and probably no medicine has accomplished so much, or received as high or as many endorsements from men and women whose extreme age gives them a seemingly slender hold upon life. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin makes perfect digestion and acts gently upon the bowels in an easy and pleasant manner. Tones up the entire system and prolongs life. Six and $1 bottles at all druggists.

DAYLIGHT SPECIAL.

Illinois Central's Fine Train Between Chicago and St. Louis.

We are in receipt of a copy of a book that has just been issued by the Illinois Central railroad advertising that road's splendidly equipped Daylight Special train between Chicago and St. Louis.

The equipment, consisting of a buffet-library car, parlor car, complete dining car, free reclining chair car and day coach, has not only been constructed new throughout, especially for this service, but it has been made a "Handsome Train," both outside and in. Every comfort, convenience and appliance known to the modern car builder's art is embodied in the make-up of the train, and in decorative features it is up to the very highest standard of refined taste. This Daylight Special, day train, is a companion to the Illinois Central's night train, the Diamond Special, between Chicago and St. Louis. Those who travel between those two great cities should try the Daylight Special, as it would be a revelation to travelers.

BACK PAINS.

City Constable West Tells Hopkinsville People How to be Rid of Them.

Back pains are the protests of bad kidneys. They point to inflamed and diseased conditions in those organs. Dangerous to neglect it. Easy to ward off diabetes, Bright's disease and dropsy. A Hopkinsville official who has found the means tells about it.

W. H. West, stock raiser, City Constable and Collector, living at 849 W. 7th St., says: "I suffered for years with kidney and bladder troubles, and in consequence was subjected to a great deal of pain. There was a heavy dull aching in the small of my back over my right hip and shoulder when I would stir around or remain long on my feet. The difficulty with the kidney secretions annoyed me at all times.

They were scanty, irregular, and the passages were accompanied with a burning sensation. I heard so much said about Doan's Kidney Pills that I got a box at Thomas & Trainers' drug store and gave them a trial. I found that they benefited me in every way, so much so that I have taken the opportunity on several occasions to recommend them to my friends, and will continue to do so. You may refer to me as having used the pills with good results, and I hope that it will be the means of relieving others who may be suffering from that common complaint, kidney trouble.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no substitute.

FIRE BY LIGHTNING.

Peacher Mills Struck and Destroyed—Other Damage.

During the heavy rain storm Monday, lightning struck the telephone in the Peacher Mills store. The coal oil tank near by was set afire and in a few moments the entire building was ablaze. The store and its contents were destroyed. The loss is about $4,000; fully insured. The same stroke that hit the store, which came in on a wire, followed the wire to the mill about 150 yards away and set that building on fire also. The flames were extinguished, however, before much damage was done to the mill.

Acme Mills and Elevator Co., J. B. Galbreath, Sec'y and Treas. June 1, 1903.

There is no lack of variety in the make-up of the June Review of Reviews. Aside from the interesting editorial comment on current events, there are four important illustrated articles on the latest methods of treating consumption, emphasizing the open-air treatment especially; an article on "The Renaissance of Nonconformity in England," by W. T. Stead; a paper apropos of the Wesleyan anniversary, by Dr. J. M. Buckley; a sketch of the late Governor Ramsey, of Minnesota, by Warren Upham; an account of the Government's experiments in "Forest-Making on Barren Lands," by Charles M. Harger; "An American's View of Patagonia;" and briefer articles on "The College of the City of New York and Its New President" and "The Well-Governed District of Columbia." There is also a resume of the report of the Mosely commission of British trade-unionists on American industrial conditions, showing why our manufactures are winning in the race with those of England. The number concludes with an interesting review of "The Oldest Code of Laws in the World,"—those promulgated by Hammurabi, King of Babylon, B. C. 228-2242, and recently translated by C. H. W. Johns.
